Overview

Texas Association of Community Health Centers (TACHC) is the state’s primary care association with a mission to strengthen and support community health centers by speaking with a unified voice and driving healthcare transformation by exemplifying innovation, access, and equity.

TACHC is constantly implementing new and innovative programs and products to assist health centers in providing high-quality healthcare services to communities in Texas. Our programs and products address the specific needs of administrators, clinicians, and other staff at centers. As a result, health center staff can access many services and educational resources through TACHC.
